

Questers Information

Questers is an international organization of women and men who study history and support the restoration and preservation of historic sites and artifacts. The Questers annually fund a two-year scholarship to a graduate student earning a Master of Science Degree in Preservation and Restoration at Columbia University and a three-year fellowship to a graduate student earning a Master of Science Degree in Art Conservation at University of Delaware/Winterthur.

There are many local chapters in the state of Pennsylvania, of which our local chapter, Brittany Belles, is included. Each chapter has monthly meetings, where members learn about history in the United States, examine antiques, meet experts in the field, share and view members' exciting collections, visit interesting historic sites and museums, and learn about and help non-profit organizations in their restoration and preservation work. The Brittany Belles Chapter meets the third Tuesday of each month in the Card Room and welcomes new members.
